4 Conventions (ND)

The specifications for the regulations defined in this chapter are binding and may not be differentiated.

Note: Business transactions requiring prior approval are defined in the appendix in accordance with their significance.

4.1 Basic Principles

Managing the global business is the responsibility of the board of management of Robert Bosch GmbH and the management bodies of OE assigned to a board member. This also means that RB/GF organizes and supervises the company in line with good Corporate Governance. To achieve this, the RB/GF relies on subordinate bodies as described in this directive.

The following principles apply to the work of the OE and the cooperation of the OE with each other:

The GE are responsible for the management of their worldwide operations. This includes implementing Corporate Governance, to the extent the RB/GF does not delegate this task otherwise. The corporate departments and corporate sectors (C) have to implement Corporate Governance within the fields of activity which the RB/GF delegates to them. They have to support RB/GF and the OE in the best possible way with respect to their field of expertise.

	RB/GF-Directive 100	Issue/Amendment 10.1	Page 5/18
Responsible RB/GF	Managing the Organizational Units of the Bosch Group	Author C/LS	Date 27 March 2023

Service areas (SB) render services for OE. Services for third parties have to be approved by the RB/GF.

Regional organizations (RO) perform tasks and assume responsibility for cross-divisional projects in their region in the overall interest of the Bosch Group. This includes implementing Corporate Governance within the fields of activity which the RB/GF delegates to them.

In assuming their worldwide responsibility, GE are supported by corporate departments and sectors, service areas and regional organizations.

In implementing this directive, applicable laws and the applicable by-laws, articles of incorporation or partnership agreement for each company must be observed.

4.2 Board of Management

- 4.2.1 The RB/GF manages the company and determines the strategy for the entire Bosch group. They alone are responsible to the shareholders. They establish, among others, a compliance management system, a risk management system, an internal control system as well as internal auditing to implement Corporate Governance. The responsibilities of the board members are listed in the Board of Management Organization Chart.
- 4.2.2 The G are responsible to the RB/GF and the shareholders for the areas assigned to them. They define the basic business focus of their OE (in agreement with the RB/GF for major strategic issues) and monitor implementation. The G responsible for a region bears the responsibility for the overall interests of the Bosch Group in that region.
- 4.2.3 In cooperation with the OE, the Gs also have the following responsibilities:
- Determination of the operational and strategic objectives and tasks of their OE.
 - Monitor the tracking and achievement of objectives which have been agreed to with the OE.
 - Release of the business plan for presentation to the RB/GF.
 - Represent the overall interests of the company to their OE.

4.3 General Principles and Responsibilities for Managing the Operating Units

4.3.1 Business Sectors

The RB/GF can combine several divisions, BU or other parts of the enterprise into a business sector, which is led by a BSB. Divisions, BU or other parts of the enterprise which belong to a business sector are neither GE nor OE.

- 4.3.1.1 The BSB is responsible to the RB/GF for the operational management of its worldwide business. This includes the BSB being responsible to the RB/GF for reaching defined targets, implementing the delegated Corporate Governance (sec. 4.1) and for implementing the agreed-upon measures. The BSB shall not be entitled to modify the Corporate Governance, to the extent it would affect tasks which have been assigned to C. In particular, the C functions' information rights and rights of intervention shall remain unaffected. The BSB is supported by the worldwide sales organization, the RO, the SB, corporate departments and sectors. In the BBM, the BSB is also supported by the EO organization as well as the management bodies of M which have been assigned it.
- 4.3.1.2 The BSB develops the objectives and the strategy of the business sector and coordinates these with the RB/GF. Within the framework of targets defined for the planning year and the released investment budget, it decides independently on all issues concerning the business of the business sector and the necessary deployment of resources. The RB/GF may intervene in particular if there is a significant deviation from the assumptions on which the planning was based, in particular with respect to targets and deployment of resources.
- 4.3.1.3 The BSB consists of several members. The G responsible for the business sector shall be its chairman. The chairman has target and, as a rule, disciplinary responsibility for the other members of the BSB. All members of the BSB have the right to voice their point of view at any time to every member of the RB/GF. The controller's right pursuant to sec. 4.6 to report to the Gs directly shall remain unaffected.
- 4.3.1.4 The BSB determines the principles of the business sector's strategy, which are implemented by the members of the BSB in their areas of responsibility independently and under their own responsibility. The basic principles for the area of responsibility of the individual members of the BSB are defined by the responsible G.
- 4.3.1.5 The members of the BSB shall be nominated and dismissed by the RB/GF.
- 4.3.1.6 The RB/GF may resolve that the G who is responsible for the business sector is not a member of the BSB. In this case, Sections 4.3.2.2 through 4.3.2.4 shall apply accordingly instead of Sec. 4.3.1.3 through 4.3.1.5.

	RB/GF-Directive 100	Issue/Amendment 10.1	Page 7/18
Responsible RB/GF	Managing the Organizational Units of the Bosch Group	Author C/LS	Date 27 March 2023

- 4.3.1.7 The members of the BSB fulfill the tasks assigned to them with joint responsibility. In general they make their decisions cooperatively. The BSB makes its decisions in joint management meetings. The chairman shall be responsible for conducting the BSB meetings (BSBM) as well as for tracking agreed-upon cross-functional measures. BSBM shall be held regularly, the resolutions shall be documented in writing. In the event of differences of opinion the chairman shall decide.
- 4.3.1.8 The members of the BSB shall inform each other of all important business matters. The chairman shall be informed by the individual members of the BSB of measures and projects which are of significance to the determination of the principles of the business sector's strategy and to uniformity.
- 4.3.2 Divisions
- 4.3.2.1 The BV is responsible to the RB/GF for the operational management of its worldwide business, including its assigned regional business units (see Sections 4.3.2.7 and 4.9.2). The BV is supported by the worldwide sales organization, the RO, the SB, corporate departments and sectors. The BV develops the objectives and the strategy of the GB and coordinates these with the RB/GF. Within the framework of targets defined for the planning year and the released investment budget, they make decisions independently on all issues concerning the business of the GB and the necessary deployment of resources. The RB/GF may intervene in particular if there is a significant deviation from the assumptions on which the planning was based, in particular with respect to targets and deployment of resources. The BV is responsible to the RB/GF for reaching defined targets, implementing the Corporate Governance in its area of responsibility (sec. 4.1) and for implementing the agreed-upon measures.
- 4.3.2.2 The BV consists of several members, one of whom shall be the President ("P"). The P bears the overall responsibility for the implementation of the business objectives of the GB towards the RB/GF and has target and, as a rule, disciplinary responsibility for the other members of the BV. The P must work towards uniformity of the management of the business. All members of the BV have the right to voice their point of view at any time to the responsible G. The controller's right pursuant to sec. 4.6 to report to the Gs directly shall remain unaffected.
- 4.3.2.3 The P, together with the other members of the BV, determines the principles of the GB strategy, which are implemented by the members of the BV in their areas of responsibility independently and under their own responsibility. The basic principles for the area of responsibility of the individual members of the BV are defined by the responsible G in coordination with the P.

	RB/GF-Directive 100	Issue/Amendment 10.1	Page 8/18
Responsible RB/GF	Managing the Organizational Units of the Bosch Group	Author C/LS	Date 27 March 2023

- 4.3.2.4 The P shall be nominated and dismissed by the RB/GF. The other members of the BV shall be nominated and dismissed by the RB/GF in coordination with the P.
- 4.3.2.5 The members of the BV fulfill the tasks assigned to them with joint responsibility. In general they make their decisions cooperatively. The BV makes its decisions in joint management meetings. The P shall be responsible for conducting the BV meetings (BVS) as well for tracking agreed-upon cross-functional measures. BVS shall be held regularly, the resolutions shall be documented in writing. In the event of differences of opinion the P shall decide.
- 4.3.2.6 The members of the BV shall inform each other of all important business matters. The P shall be informed by the individual members of the BV of measures and projects which are of significance to the determination of the principles of the GB strategy and to uniformity.
- 4.3.2.7 Market and size of the GB or product policies may necessitate organization of the GB into sub-groups, e.g. into product business units. The responsibility of the BV for the overall GB is not limited by such a division of responsibilities; the BV bears direct responsibility for returns on invested capital.
- 4.3.2.8 Divisions which belong to a business sector are neither GE nor OE. For them the BSB shall replace the RB/GF in sec. 4.3.2.1 to 4.3.2.7. The P and the other members of the BV may, however, only be appointed with the consent of the RB/GF.
- 4.3.3 Corporate Departments and Corporate Sectors
- 4.3.3.1 C management has worldwide responsibility within its field of activity. They shall manage the departments or areas assigned to them independently and support the RB/GF as well as the OE in the best possible way with respect to their field of expertise. They have to implement Corporate Governance within the fields of activity which the RB/GF may delegate to them. They have a coordinative function within their field of activity for issues that affect more than one OE.
- 4.3.3.2 Within the scope of targets and budgets established for the plan year, C management decides independently on the required deployment of resources.
- 4.3.3.3 In order to fulfill their responsibilities, corporate departments and sectors may establish regional C-departments. They report to C management with respect to their delegated field of activity (sec. 4.3.3.1) but are, as a rule, assigned to the RO on a disciplinary basis.

	RB/GF-Directive 100	Issue/Amendment 10.1	Page 9/18
Responsible RB/GF	Managing the Organizational Units of the Bosch Group	Author C/LS	Date 27 March 2023

- 4.3.3.4 If and to the extent corporate departments issue internal rules within their field of activity, these standards shall prevail over rules issued by other OE.
- 4.3.4 Cross-divisional functions within the BBM (M)
- 4.3.4.1 M management has worldwide responsibility within its field of activity in the BBM. They shall manage the departments or areas assigned to them independently and to support the RB/GF, the BSB, the divisions belonging to the BBM, as well as the EO in the best possible way with respect to its field of expertise and relating to its field of activity. They have to implement Corporate Governance within the fields of activity which BBM's BSB may delegate to them. They have a coordinative function within their field of activity for issues that affect more than one division belonging to the BBM.
- 4.3.4.2 Within the scope of targets and budgets established for the plan year, M management decides independently on the required deployment of resources. It has to be avoided to reduplicate existing structures within the RB organization or entities.
- 4.3.4.3 In order to fulfill its responsibilities, M management may establish regional M departments. They report to M management with respect to their delegated field of activity (sec. 4.3.4.1) but are, as a rule, assigned to the RO on a disciplinary basis.
- 4.3.5 RO
- 4.3.5.1 A Regional Organization (RO) is responsible for tasks and projects within a region which the RB/GF or the RO which it belongs to may delegate to them. They have to implement Corporate Governance within the fields of activity delegated to them. They may consist of several regional companies (RG) or RO joined on an organizational basis. Within their field of activity, the RO will be supported by the service areas and the corporate departments.
- 4.3.5.2 Main Responsibilities and Rights of Participation of the RO:
- Assuming representation of the Bosch Group (vis-à-vis political institutions, public authorities, industrial associations) with respect to issues affecting more than one

	RB/GF-Directive 100	Issue/Amendment 10.1	Page 10/18
Responsible RB/GF	Managing the Organizational Units of the Bosch Group	Author C/LS	Date 27 March 2023

OE as well as lobbying for Bosch in the region, supported by C/CG. Contact with public authorities by individual OE have to be coordinated with RO.

- Tasks relating to social partner management, supported by local HRC.
- Active contribution to, and consolidation of, the regional RB strategy, taking into account C-, divisional and business sector (BS as well as BBx) strategies and their impact in order to contribute the over-arching Bosch interest.
- Support in realizing business synergies, cross selling activities and development of (among others new) business outside of divisions or business sectors (BS as well as BBx) as well as supporting local start-ups and business incubation on behalf of BS, GB or RB/GF.
- Exercising disciplinary responsibility for associates within the legal entity.
- Within the scope of targets and RO budget established for the plan year, RO management decides independently on the deployment of resources.

4.3.6 Service Areas

4.3.6.1 A service area (SB) shall render services to the OE.

4.3.6.2 Main tasks of an SB:

- Bundling of services (including expert services) to achieve economies of scale and specialization.
- Rendering services in accordance with service level agreements (SLA) concluded between the SB and an OE.
- Designing and optimizing services for their recipients. This includes the authority to define rules of procedure. SB and internal recipients of services shall take into account the overall interest of Bosch.
- Within the scope of targets and SB budget established for the plan year, the BV decides independently on the deployment of resources.

4.3.7 EO Organization

The EO organization is responsible for providing the customers' perspective in the BBM (including regional aspects of that) within the context of customer strategic processes and is responsible for customer specific tasks and services which transcend BBM divisions as well as [for negotiating customer specific framework agreements].

4.3.8 OE in General

4.3.8.1 The management of an OE has the responsibility for the business of its OE or the fulfilment of the tasks delegated to the OE, as the case may be. This includes implementing Corporate Governance, to the extent the RB/GF does not delegate this task otherwise.

4.3.8.2 If management consists of several persons, Paragraphs 4.3.2.1 to 4.3.2.6 apply correspondingly.

4.3.8.3 Each OE is assigned to a G directly. Notwithstanding the responsibility of the responsible G according to Paragraph 4.2, the GL are directly responsible to the RB/GF for their organizational unit and in this sense must manage the business of the area assigned to them, or, fulfil the tasks delegated to them, with the goal to continuously achieve an optimal return on the invested capital and to contribute at the same time to the overall success of the Bosch Group.

4.3.8.4 The GL are obliged to comply with all mandatory legal provisions (principle of legality). Furthermore, they shall act in accordance with applicable internal rules and instructions.

4.3.8.5 The overall interest of the Bosch Group has priority over the objectives of the OE. The main goal is to guard the overall interests of the Bosch Group in all regions to the best possible ability. In order to observe this principle, product perspective, customer perspective, and regional perspective must be considered in a balanced manner.

4.3.8.6 The statutory rights and duties of GL members, who are also members of bodies (in particular legal representatives) or boards of TOGE, RG or BEGE shall remain unaffected by this regulation. In particular, the management of a company generally has to be able to observe its duties to manage the business diligently. If the management makes use of internal or external services for this purpose, it shall have an obligation to supervise and the right to take the final decision with respect to aspects of diligent management.

4.4 Divisional Strategic Plan, Business Plan

4.4.1 The management of a GE should develop the business with the objective of assuring sustainable profitability of its GE thereby taking advantage of all available growth opportunities.

Within this framework, planning shall be in accordance with the following principles:

- Acquiring, expanding and maintaining global market positions which assure ongoing competitiveness through focusing on customer requirements, in particular through extraordinary performance in product development, manufacturing technology, quality and on time delivery performance.
- Developing business primarily through internal efforts by concentrating on the key core competencies which are necessary for the market position. For this reason, for example, the procurement market must be actively pursued and opportunities for obtaining licenses will be pursued where appropriate.
- Concentration of headcount and financial resources in fixed and current assets on products and markets where Bosch can achieve, expand or maintain a competitive position.

4.4.2 Important planning assumptions shall be defined centrally, especially where there are common issues (markets, distribution channels, scope of work, exchange rate, personnel costs, etc.).

4.4.3 The management of a GE shall define the long-range objectives and major programs of the GE in the divisional strategic plan. The divisional strategic plan includes for all GEs:

- the GE's strategic goals and the major programs necessary for the achievement of those goals,
- an economic analysis of the objectives and measures,
- as well as the customer, product and market view and, therefore, includes in addition:
 - a) an analysis of the GE's current position in international competition.
 - b) a description of market and customers' requirements as well as the technical and technological trends and their consequences for the GE.
 - c) defining the necessary product generations and the timeframe for each.

	RB/GF-Directive 100	Issue/Amendment 10.1	Page 13/18
Responsible RB/GF	Managing the Organizational Units of the Bosch Group	Author C/LS	Date 27 March 2023

- 4.4.4 The business plan contains for the planning year in addition to the description of the GE's current position also the goals for the business planning time period and the measures by which the GE's management intends to reach those goals. The business plan of a business sector and a GB directly assigned to a G covers a two-year time period: one planning year, one forecast year. With regard to the forecast year the business plan contains a reduced scope of reporting. The business plans of other OEs are limited to the planning year. The planning of an RO is limited to the RO's budget and the segments of its business which are not allocated to a GE.
- 4.4.5 Every year transfer prices for inter-company transactions between OE shall be agreed upon. directives for transfer pricing shall be established by RB Corporate Headquarters.
- 4.4.6 The GE's strategic plan will be coordinated with the RB/GF once a year. The business plan of the OEs shall become binding after approval, where appropriate with conditions, by the responsible departments and persons listed in the appendix. The RB/GF may set targets for the OE, in particular (without limitation) strategic targets, including non-financial targets like diversity and sustainability. The responsible GL is responsible for implementing the approved plan.
- 4.4.7 Sec. 4.4 shall apply accordingly to the divisional strategic plans and business plans of divisions and BU assigned to a G directly belonging to a BS, provided that they shall coordinate the plans with the BSB and present them to the RB/GF before adopting them. These plans are approved by the RB/GF by approving the BS' divisional strategic and business plan.

4.5 Reporting

- 4.5.1 The GL must regularly report to the RB/GF on the business development as well as on business plans within their areas of responsibility and shall report on important matters at any time as well as on demand of the RB/GF. RB Corporate Headquarters shall define the time, content and form of the report. With regard to key data (sales, operating result, headcount, capex, working capital), the reports must reflect the latest status of information at the time the report is submitted. Verbal reports supplement the report.
- 4.5.2 To the extent the implementation of Corporate Governance has been delegated to OEs, these OEs shall regularly and, if required, ad-hoc, report to the RB/GF on the implementation and in particular on infringements, risks, which have been discovered, and requirements to improve.

	RB/GF-Directive 100	Issue/Amendment 10.1	Page 14/18
Responsible RB/GF	Managing the Organizational Units of the Bosch Group	Author C/LS	Date 27 March 2023

- 4.5.3 Independent of the regular reports, the RB/GF must be informed promptly of identifiable risks and opportunities which could significantly affect business developments or which could be of significance to the Bosch Group.
- 4.5.4 The GL is responsible for informing its senior management about business development in the OE as well as about the general business development of the Bosch Group.

4.6 Controlling

- 4.6.1 In all GEs and SBs, a senior staff member is responsible for the controlling function. In this capacity he holds a special position of trust: In cooperation with the GL, he must ensure that all transactions are examined from an economic point of view and ensure that decisions are made in accordance with criteria of economic feasibility and established directives.
- 4.6.2 The Controller is responsible to the RB/GF to ensure that planning has been done in accordance with appropriate economic aspects; for critically monitoring the business development within the GE or SB and determining the resulting economic consequences; for fast and reliable reporting; and for promptly raising opportunities and risks arising out of the ongoing business including for subsequent business years. In order to fulfill these tasks, after informing the GL, the Controller has the immediate right to inform the G responsible for the GE or SB. In addition, in justified cases, the Controller has the right to inform the G responsible for business planning and controlling, without first informing anyone else. The GL shall provide for the organizational rules required for fulfilling these tasks.
- 4.6.3 In all GBs belonging to a business sector, a senior staff member is responsible for the controlling function. Sec. 4.6.1 and 4.6.2 apply accordingly, provided that such controller has to cooperate with the BV of its division, is responsible to the BSB and has, after first informing the BV of its division, a right to inform the chairman of the BSB directly as well as the BSB member responsible for business planning and controlling. Furthermore, in justified cases the controller may directly inform the G responsible for business planning and controlling in fulfilment of his tasks and without first informing anyone else.

4.7 Human Resources

- 4.7.1 In every BS a senior staff member is responsible for human resources. In this capacity he holds a special position of trust: He, in cooperation with the BSB, ensures collaboration with the workers' representatives and implementation of Bosch's HR policy.
- 4.7.2 The person responsible for HR is responsible to the RB/GF for implementing the HR policy of the Bosch Group within the business sector. In fulfilling his tasks, he has the right to directly inform the CHRO. The BSB shall provide for the organizational rules required for fulfilling these tasks.

4.8 Business Transactions Requiring Prior Approval

- 4.8.1 For business transactions listed in the appendix, the GL must obtain prior approval from the departments or persons listed, if these transactions exceed the limits defined for the GB in the appendix or meet the qualitative criteria laid out in the preamble of the appendix.

In all other cases, the GL makes the final decision with respect to the business of its OE. Business transactions not listed in the appendix shall not be presented to the RB/GF for decision. In case of doubt concerning authority to act, the GL should consult with RB/GF. C have the right, within the scope of their authority as defined in this directive and the appendix, to delegate decision-making authority to applicable OE corporate departments, but shall remain ultimately responsible for the proper completion of the tasks.

Decisions should also not be transferred to a higher level than set forth in the appendix unless the GL deems such necessary.

Coordination with the G responsible for the OE shall be handled in accordance with Section 4.2.

- 4.8.2 Applications for business transactions requiring prior approval should be presented to the departments or persons preparing for the decision and to those departments or persons responsible for the decision according to the appendix as soon as possible so that a decision can be made without time pressure. If a business transaction requiring approval concerns a TOGE or RG not only as the object of such a transaction, applications relating to such transaction shall be coordinated with the respective TOGE or RG, even if it is not responsible for deciding on the business transaction pursuant to the appendix. This is the case, for example, if a TOGE/RG is a shareholder of a legal entity which is supposed to be sold or is expected to acquire a legal entity.

Responsible RB/GF	Managing the Organizational Units of the Bosch Group	Author C/LS	Date 27 March 2023

4.8.3 In exceptional cases, if the required approval cannot be obtained or cannot be obtained in time, the GL is entitled and obligated to obtain the approval at the next lower decision level¹⁾ but at least at OE/C departments level or in case of exceptional urgency make the decision on its own, considering the best interests of the OE and the Bosch Group. In that case, subsequent approval of the departments or persons listed in the appendix must be obtained promptly by explaining the subject matter, the urgency and the decision reached.

4.8.4 If the approval of the Supervisory Board or of the Board of Directors of a TOGE, RG or BEGE is required before action can be taken, it must be obtained after approval has been granted by the departments or persons listed in the appendix.

4.9 Supplementary Regulations for TOGE, RG, BEGE (not directly assigned to a G)

4.9.1 The members of the management of these companies appointed or designated by RB shall submit the following for approval via the GL of the applicable OE to the responsible departments or persons listed in the appendix:

- the business plan.
- the draft of the year-end financial statements and the annual report.
- applications for approval of measures which are required according to this directive and its appendix.

4.9.2 Legal entities/companies not assigned to a G fall within the responsibility of, and are led by, the OE. The OE establishes clear lines of responsibility. Disciplinary responsibility for the associates remains with the applicable body within the legal entity (e.g. Board, Managing Directors, Officers).
